Thanks to the New York Public Library's two-year-old public education program, the answer is thousands. For the price of a movie ticket, the library welcomes all comers to a stately room on the second floor of its main building, there to hear and talk with the best and brightest of the literary community. A series on biography wound up recently with Robert Caro, prize-winning biographer of Robert Moses, now working on the second of three volumes on Lyndon Johnson.	False		1985-04-17	TX 1-554794
